

DIRECTS WAKEFIELD JAYVEES—Junior Varsity basketball coach at Wakefield High School, Maynard Haithcock, is well pleased with the prospects of his 1954-55 squad, which opens it's season Friday, December 10th, against the George Washington frosh on the home floor. A native of Macon, North Carolina, Maynard was an outstanding court performer at George Washington University, where he received his B.S. degree in 1949, and just this year his M.A. degree. As a basketball player with the Colonials, he lettered in three years of play, and was elected co-captain in his final year, 1949. Drafted by the Washington Caps, Maynard elected to take up coaching at Richard Montgomery High School in Rockville, Maryland, and did not go out for the professional team. After four years as basketball coach at the Maryland school, Maynard came to Wakefield early this year to take over the duties as Jayvee coach. Quiet spoken but strict when it comes to the rudiments of cage play, the likable "Southerner" should have many winning years with the Junior Warriors. (Photo by Bill Little)
